Fellow Members and Partners

It's been a cold and cloudy day today, but I have just returned to home base after our monthly Probus Committee meeting this afternoon. On a winter afternoon it was a warming and encouraging experience. The highlight was our frank and positive review of what we are doing to foster fun, fellowship and friendship among our members. We have just appointed one of our committee, Peter Turner, as Membership Secretary to keep us focused on our members, particularly those who have recently joined our ranks.

We already have a healthy list of special interest groups which cater for those who want to share or join with others for some common interest or activity. As our newsletter reminds us, there is a good range of options available but others could perhaps be added.

For example a computer or iPhone group, a painting or drawing group, studio or outdoor, a book reading group, a discussion group on the subject of technology or other topics of interest, a financial management group etc etc. If you have any interest in this kind of thing, then let me or any member of the committee know anytime.

We have set up an interesting line up of speakers to visit us at our Tuesday monthly meetings throughout the rest of the year. Make sure you and your partner don't miss these. Mark your diaries with "Probus GM" at 10 am on the second Tuesday of the month. We had a hiccup last month with the coffee but Norths have promised it will never happen again.

We are proposing to email you once a month advising you of the details of the speaker and the subject for each monthly meeting as it comes. If you missed last month's talk by Keith Mason AC QC on the story of Egon Kisch, you can catch the details on Google but without the special insights which Keith provided for us. It was most memorable.

This coming meeting our presentation focuses on Kemal Ataturk. The speaker is Harvey Broadbent AM, a very well known writer, television and radio broadcaster. It promises to be fascinating. Watch for the email coming your way soon.

If you have any suggestions about any aspect of the Club's activities, then please just phone or email any member of our committee.

Cheers,

Gerald Christmas, President
